I can no longer hold me patient.
Heare me you wrangling pirates that fall out,
I (thaking out that which you haue pild from me :
Which of you tremble not that looke on me ?
If not, that I being Queene, you bow like subiects,
Yet that by you diſpoſd, you quake like rebels :
O gentle villaine, doe not turne away.

Glo. Foule wrinkled witch, what mak'ſt thou in my ſight?

Qu. Mar. But repitition of what thou haſt mard,
That will I make, before I let thee goe :
A husband and a ſonne thou ow'eſt vnto me,
And thou a kingdome, all of you alleagence :
The ſorrow that I haue by right is yours,
And all the pleaſures you vſurpe, is mine.

Glo. The curſe my noble father layd one thee,
When thou didſt Crowne his warlike browes with paper,
And with thy ſcorne drew riuers from his eyes,
And then to drie them, gau'ſt the Duke a clout
Steept in the blood of pritty Rutland :
His curſes then from biterneſſe of ſoule,
Denounc'd againſt thee, are fallen vpon thee,
And God, not we, hath plagued thy bloody deed.

Qu. So iuſt is God to rite the innocent.

Haſt. O twas the fouleſt deed to ſlay that Babe,
And the moſt mercileſſe that euer was heard of.

Ri. Tyrants themſelues wept when it was reported,

Dorſ. No man but propheſied reuenge for it.

Buc. Northumberland then preſent, wept to ſee it.

Q. Mar. What ? were you ſnarling all before I came,
Ready to catch each other by the throat,
And turne you now your hatred now on me ?
Did Yorkes dread curſe preuaile ſo much with heauen,
That Henries death my louely Edwards death,
Their Kingdomes loſt my woefull baniſhment,
Could all but anſwere for that peeuiſh brat ?
Can curſes pearce the Clouds, and enter heauen ;
Why then giue way dull Clouds to my quicke curſes :
If not by warre, by ſurfet die your King.
As ours by murder to make him a King.

Edward

Edward my ſonne, which now is Prince of Wales,
For Edward my ſonne, which was the Prince of Wales
Died in his youth by like untimely violence,
Thy ſelfe a Queene, for me that was a Queene,
Out-liue thy glory, like my wretched ſelfe :
Long mayſt thou liue to waile thy childrens loſſe,
And ſee another, as I ſee thee now
Deckt in thy glory, as thou art ſtald in mine:
Long dye thy happy dayes before thy death,
And after many lengthned houres of griefe,
Dye neyther mother, wife, nor Englands Queene,
Riuers and Dorſet, you were ſtanders by,
And ſo waſt thou Lord Haſtings, when my ſonne
Was ſtabd with bloody daggers, God I pray him,
That none of you, may liue your naturall age,
But by ſome vnlookt accident cut off.

Glo. Haue done thy charme thou hatefull withered

Q. Mar. And leaue out thee? ſtay dog for thou ſhall
If heauen haue any grieuous plague in ſtore,
Exceeding thoſe that I can wiſh vpon thee:
O let them keepe it till thy ſinnes be ripe,
And then hurle downe their indignation
On thee the troubler of the poore worlds peace:
The worme of conſcience ſtill begnaw thy ſoule,
Thy friends ſuſpect for traytors whilſt thou liueſt,
And take deepe traytors for thy deareſt friends,
No ſleepe cloſe vp the deadly eyes of thine,
Vnleſſe it be whilſt ſome tormenting dreame
Affrights thee with a hell of vgly diuels,
Thou eliuiſh markt, abortiue rooting hog,
Thou that waſt ſeald in thy natiuity
The ſlaue of nature, and the ſonne of hell,
Thou ſlander of thy mothers heauy wombe,
Thou loathed iſſue of thy fathers loynes,
Thou rag of honour, thou deteſted, &c.

Glo. Margret.

Q. Mar. Richard. Glo. Ha?

Q. Mar. I call thee not.

Glo. Then cry thee mercy: for I had thought.
